WILL CONTINUE BUSINESS.

Fhe Sergeant Foundry Will Begin Again at Once.

The Telegram announces with great pleasure that the Sergeant Manufacturing Co., which suffered so severely by fire Monday afternoon, will continue business and will be ready in a few days to go ahead filing the many orders for mills which were booked before the fire.

As previously told, the fire destroyed only the machine shop building and the office, leaving the foundry building, which contained most or pearly all the say mill patterns, and thus they were saved. We are informed that work will be resumed immediately and it is likely that all of the orders will be filled.

The proprietors of Glascock's foundry and the Acme Mill Works have endered the Messrs. Sergeant the use of their machinery departments, in order that the work may be carried on w thout waiting to purchase and install new machinery.

This is good news. The Sergeant foundry was one of our most valuable manufacturing plants, its owners among the best men who ever lived, and the whole community wishes for them success to a degree that will enable them to soon erect a larger plant

HAND BADLY CUT.

Employee of Hugh Scott's Mill the

About 2:30 o'clock this afternoon John Dick, colored, an employe of Hugh Scott's factory was brought down to Holton's drug store with right hand terribly torn up.

In attempting to do some work a rip saw, by one of those unaccount able freaks of fate his hand was caught by the saw and almost torn to shreds. His injuries were attended to by Drs. Bat le and Roberson who think most of his hand will be saved.
